Sr. Carolin Tahhan Fachakh is a Syrian Salesian Sister who has been just honored with the International Women of Courage Award 2017.

Sister Carolin was honored, by the US State Department, for her perseverance in serving those affected by the Syrian conflict and her willingness to safeguard and empower the most vulnerable, including children, refugees, and displaced women. Putting her own life at risk, Sister Carolin has become a beacon of hope for both Muslims and Christians alike. In addition to running a nursery school and providing a safe environment for traumatized children, she also runs a tailoring workshop to provide job skills for vulnerable displaced women.

Courage is not simply one of the virtues, but the form of every virtue at the testing point.
C. S. Lewis

INVITATION to a MEETING

Sr. Carolin Tahhan Fachakh

a Syrian Salesian Sister who has been just honored with the International Women of Courage Award 2017

She will speak about her mission in Damascus, Syria with women and young people

April, 11 at 9am - 11.30am - UISG headquarters

The meeting will be in Italian. English translation will be provided.